Short Description of Activity Conducted:

There are a number of reasons why you should consider cutting back on energy consumption. First of all, reducing energy use limits the number of carbon emissions in the environment. Carbon emissions play a significant role in climate change, which is thought to be the cause of powerful natural disasters in recent years. With billions of harmful emissions in the atmosphere, cutting back is always a good thing.

In turn, conserving energy produces a higher quality of life. Reduced emissions result in cleaner air quality. In addition, it helps create a healthier planet, or at least helps sustain the resources we already have. Being conservative with energy can ensure that lakes, trees and animals are around for future generations.

So department of Physics decided to conduct a short term course in power consumption analysis entitled “Analysis of Power Consumptions of Home Appliances”. This course helps students to analysis power consumption in their homes and lowers their electricity bills by reducing the consumption. In turn it will be helpful in aware the people about effect of higher power consumption on environment. In this STC 60 students of B. Sc. II were admitted. Theory syllabus was taught in college as per time table. Practicals on how to calculate power consumption of a particular unit such as bulb, fan, fridge, mixer grinder etc was carried out.

After completing theory and practical's students collected previous five months electricity bills of their homes. Observe electricity uses in their homes for a week and then analyses the power consumptions. Discussion with all the students after power consumption analysis of their homes leads to no. of ways of saving power.
